

What a great pleasure it was for us to meet a young man full of love and the bright future as though we expected life to be one untroubled stream of pleasure.

But now we are separated...

Sometimes I think peace is finding in the distance to love me in a short time, but alas, your departure - it is a hard love and it is a vain decision.

J.M. [unclear]
1862