FALL / OCTOBER & NOVEMBER 2019

The NEA Big Read: KYGMC Maysville 2019 starts in October!!!

Our Kick-Off event will be on October 3 at MCTC Field Auditorium.

Pick up a book at the museum or events - calendar inside!

THE VIEW FROM SECOND AND SUTTON

We are having a wonderful start to autumn at your Museum Center. From our Galleries, Research Library, the Old Pogue Experience, to the KSB Miniatures Collection, we are excited to present the fall and winter program of events in our historic location and in area schools and libraries.

We began our fall programs with two great events. Labor Day weekend featured the Farm To Table Benefit Dinner sponsored by the Hinton family in celebration of May's Lick Mill's 50th Anniversary. This special event and the release of the commemorative Old Pogue May's Lick Mill signed bottles benefited our Limestone Project. Special thank you to the Hinton family, the Pogue family, and to all the participants at the Farm to Table Benefit event. Area educators were hosted in our Educators' Reception at the Museum sponsored in part by Meadowview Regional Medical Center also in September.

One year ago (October 13, 2018) we opened the Bourbon History Galleries at The Old Pogue Experience in the Limestone Building. The Limestone Building has been the catalyst for an exciting year at the Museum Center. With workshops sponsored by the KSB Miniatures Collection, school classes, community groups and museum seminars using the Education and Conference Rooms on the second floor, the Limestone Building has complemented and allowed for a broad growth of opportunities for the Museum Center.

Visitors and members are attending your Museum Center in record numbers to view our new and changing exhibits as well as new items on display in the KSB Miniatures Collection. Attendance for 2019 is at an all-time high. We trust with your attendance and support of our exhibits and special programs during the fall and winter seasons, we will finish 2019 with record breaking attendance numbers.

The plans for fall and the holiday season are set, and we hope you will make the Museum Center a must visit for your family and guests.

On Saturday October 12, the Old Pogue Distillery and the Old Pogue Experience will present Bob Batchelor to discuss his new book, The Bourbon King: The Life and Crimes of George Remus, Prohibition's Evil Genius. The event will be held at the Opera Theater beginning at 5:00 p.m. Reservations are required and can be made on line at the Old Pogue Distillery website or by phone at the Museum Center, 606.564.5865.

The Education Services of the Museum Center will be in full swing with special activities and programs celebrating our community reading program during the month of October. THE BIG READ program is funded in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts with additional support from the Scripps Foundation, International Paper, and the KYGMC Sustaining Fund, along with additional support from our area schools and public libraries in Mason and Fleming Counties. Activities will include exhibits, seminars, presentations by authors, the Shuling Fister Dance Troupe, the International Tea, school assemblies, the keynote address given by Dr. Shanshan Li, and the distribution of books to area schools and libraries. ises to offer to our community one of the most exciting literacy events in our eleven years of sponsorship of the reading program.

Dreamers and Doers: Immigration Innovation will be the signature exhibit of the BIG READ program. This special KYGMC produced exhibit will be featured in The Calvert Gallery during October and early November. Museum Seminars will be held on October 5th, 8th, and 19th with topics from the various themes of the BIG READ book, Everything I Never Told You by Celeste Ng.

*Reading makes immigrants of us all - it takes us away from home,
but more important,
it finds homes for us everywhere.
—Hazel Rochman*

The Wormald Gallery beginning in October will showcase the Museum's collection of Steve White paintings. The highlight of the show will be the Museum's newest Steve White painting, "Early Mason County, Kentucky, Furniture Makers," which features two of the Mason County made cabinets found in the Museum.

November marks the opening of our holiday exhibits with the International Nativity Scenes opening the week of Thanksgiving on November 26. This traditional showcase of Nativity Scenes is being presented in part with the support of Trinity Lutheran Church and will be open in the Calvert Gallery through the Christmas season.

As always, we thank you for your support, for being a member, and for building the legacy of the Kentucky Gateway Museum Center.

MARLA'S MUSINGS

By Marla Toncray

Exciting changes are taking place on the second floor of the KYGMC Wormald Gallery.

With the passing of the burley tobacco industry and reintroduction of hemp production, the opportunity has presented itself to highlight how agriculture has impacted our economy and lifestyles in the Buffalo Trace Region.

The exhibits are under development, with a targeted opening date of January 2020.

In addition to artifacts and photos, the exhibit will highlight important statistics during Maysville's heyday as the second largest Burley tobacco market in the world, second to Lexington.

Rummaging through old photos has been a step back in time, with photos of trucks lined up at the Duke Warehouses on Kentucky 10 east of the city; farmers and buyers walking side by side during auctions; the beauty of a Kentucky tobacco field; and the hard labor involved in setting and cutting a field of the "little gold leaf".

The history of hemp production in our county is just as fascinating, especially when you consider our county was the largest producer of hemp in America in the 1850's.

Several circumstances brought about the demise of the hemp industry in America. Slave labor prior to the American Civil War was essential to the cultivation and production of hemp products like rope, canvas, sails, netting, maps and flags.

When slavery was abolished with the Thirteenth Amendment, the hemp industry labor force was greatly diminished.

Another enemy of hemp was the United States government itself, with politicians siding with industrialists like William Randolph Hurst and the DuPont Chemical Company against hemp production because it was a threat to their profits.

Racial propaganda against Negroes and Mexicans was also used by politicians and in 1937, the Marijuana Tax Act was passed. This legislation led to extreme regulation of industrial hemp, as well as the prohibition of modern day cannabis plants in America.

While the biggest changes to the second floor gallery will be the hemp and tobacco exhibits, we also have plans to "refresh" our other display cases.

We hope these changes will keep members and visitors interested in coming back to see what's new in the Wormald.

HIXSON'S HOARDINGS AND MORE...

By Tandy Nash

For the second year in a row, the Kentucky Gateway Museum Center has received a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts and matching grants from International Paper and The Scripps Foundation. As a non-profit, our museum depends on such grants to provide ways to spread the love of reading, encouraging growth in education to all ages, and showcasing what our community has to offer. We partner with the Mason County Library, the Fleming County Library, The Historic Russell Theatre, nine high schools and 2 Community Colleges.

This year's book is Everything I Never Told You, by Celeste Ng. This book was a New York Times Book Review Editor's Choice and Amazon #1 Best Book of 2014; winner of the American Library Association's Alex Award and the Asian/Pacific American Award for Fiction; and named a best book of the year by more than a dozen publications, including National Public Radio, Entertainment Weekly, School Library Journal, and The Huffington Post. A gripping page-turner and striking family portrait, the novel follows a Chinese American family in 1970s small-town Ohio as they try to understand the death of the oldest daughter, Lydia. It explores "alienation, achievement, race, gender, family, and identity—as the police must unravel what has happened to Lydia, the Lee family must uncover the sister and daughter that they hardly knew.... Achingly, precisely, and sensitively written." Ng chose to set the novel in the 1970s because it was "a time when the issues the Lees wrestle with were all thrown into relief", including the hardships mothers faced in wanting careers, the lack of acceptance of interracial marriages, deflection and family dynamics. Free books are available at all events or you may come pick one up at your community library or KYGMC.

The museum and libraries will provide activities that expand on the book's many themes. Many of the topics are hard for us to talk about as individuals, but if we have an introduction to how to address them, we can help ourselves and perhaps help others. It may also be a catalyst to remind us all to appreciate each and every day with the people we love. Throughout the month of October, we hope that you will attend all these "free to the public" events that encourage you to learn how to understand people's cultures, learn about your own, promote engagement with others, and build upon our strong diverse community.

The Pogue Distillery has a deeply involved and personal history with George Remus from the early days of Prohibition through Repeal of the Volstead Act, much of which is chronicled in Bob Batchelor's new book.

Come hear a discussion about George Remus, his life, his rise to bootlegging fame, his connection to Maysville and the Pogue Distillery, purchase a copy of Mr. Batchelor's new book and have your copy personally signed by the author.

If you would like to register for the Bob Batchelor discussion and book signing, please call KYGMC to RSVP.

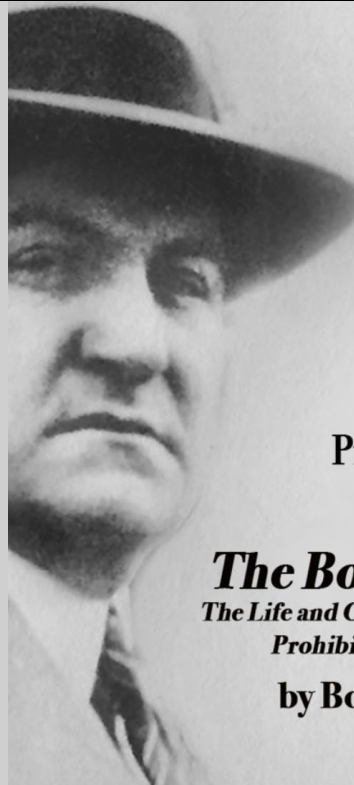

This event is being held in conjunction with the annual Pogue Bourbon release. Calling to RSVP does NOT guarantee you a case of Bourbon. It is book signing event registration only.

The Old Pogue Distillery and the Kentucky Gateway Museum Center - Old Pogue Experience are proud to present acclaimed author Bob Batchelor to discuss his new book:

The Bourbon King: The life and crimes of George Remus, Prohibition's Evil Genius

Event will be held at The KYGMC Limestone Building - Old Pogue Experience
102 West 2nd Street, Maysville, KY 41056

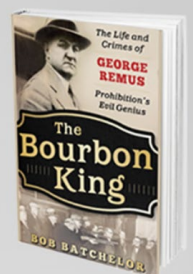

5:00 PM on October 12th, 2019

Love. Murder.
Mountains of cash.
Rivers of bourbon.
A grand spectacle
like few before it.

The tale of George Remus will take readers into the dark heart of Prohibition's "Bourbon Trail."

The Bourbon King
The Life and Crimes of George Remus, Prohibition's Evil Genius

MINIATURES CORNER

By Kaye Browning

I'm proud to announce that visitors to the gallery this upcoming holiday season will not only be treated to our Thanksgiving and Christmas exhibits, but will also be greeted with a newly designed entrance to the KSB Miniatures Collection. While most of you are familiar with my passionate pursuit of miniatures, the purpose of the foyer redesign was geared toward the increasing numbers of tourists who are visiting the collection from across the United States and beyond. The new space is comprised of five areas meant to serve as an introduction to miniatures.

The Huge World of Miniatures section features noteworthy individual pieces and will eventually include biographical information and portraits of select artisans, as well as insight to their inspiration.

The Oh the Stories They Tell corner features many miniatures which tell stories relating to my youth. Others were selected in the hopes they will evoke personal memories for our visitors. Also included is the piece I consider my first miniature. The tiny spool bed is displayed with a copy of Tasha Tudor's A is for Annabelle, the book that started my fascination with the art form.

The Study the Details wall will become an interactive display once we install the magnifying glasses to examine extremely detailed miniatures with intricate inlay and carvings or working parts like those of the 1/12th-scale Swiss Army knife. I see this section as not only one that will be fun for children, but one that will entice visitors to further explore the art of fine-scale miniatures.

The Featured Miniatures section completes the educational introduction with cases holding items representing different periods of furniture and other items. These exhibits will be changed on a regular basis to give onlookers the opportunity to see a variety of miniatures up close and personal.

I think the new foyer design provides a welcoming invitation into the world of miniatures and gives visitors a real introduction to the scope and quality of the KSB Miniatures Collection. I'm excited to hear your thoughts on the new additions, as well. If you make it to the gallery in the coming months, be sure to check out our new holiday displays and items from Scaled to Perfection that we've placed throughout the museum. You'll find the Lincoln Herndon Law Office now located in the atrium overlook of the Hixon Lobby, the Tanzanian Wildlife Refuge on the second floor elevator landing of the Wormold Building, Winter Observatory in the upstairs hallway and G. Roberts & Son in the conference room. I hope you enjoy all the new additions!
